OLD HONESTY AT YONKERS

20, 1907.

ong Shots Have a Field Day at the Empire City Course.

CLOISTERESS GETS RACE

Message Tells of Death on Steamer of Mr. Butler's Partner on Way Here.

geiding being 16 in the betting.
After a delay at the post, during which delle Griffon threw Keating and was remounted. Musgrave took Gagu into the lead and remained there to the end. Hollow just managed to beat Lavarrina, a Fort Erie winner, for second place. These alternated in second and third position throughout. Emma G. was played by a coterie for a large bundle, but she could not untangle herself after the start. Lasorrella was left after the start. Lasorrella was left at the post.

Another Long One Wins.

Another Long One Wins.

Still the long shot prevailed, for Cloisteress, at sens in the ring won the third race, leading all the way and winning pulled up in 1.09 for the "about six furlongs." The time reflected a fast race, Owner H K. Vinsgut, of Setauket, L. I. was on hand with checks already drawn to play his filly, and he did so to the grief of the knights of the ring. Belie Strome, figuring all over as the winner of the race, was favorite, but the price ascended and the wiseacres of the gambleorium decided that it was not her day. "Jimmy" McCormick's jockey, Sumse, had the mount, but he couldn't get a particle of her renowned speed out of the mare. She was never a contender. Accumpanying Cloisteress in the pacemaking was Royal Onyx, and the latter shung to segond place easily. The others closed up iff the stretch, and in the rally Zelina managed to get her head in front of Little Woods for the show position. The favorite was fifth. Another Long One Wins.

Old Honesty Wins.

Old Honesty Wins.

Old Honesty helped to keep up the slaughter of the favorites by winning the fourth race at sevens, Wexford leing again the favorite, and again falling his backers. Old Honesty led all the way and won a clever race easily from Lillie Turner, which beat Orphan Lad a length for second money. The latter was fractious at the post, and when the start came one of the assistants had hold of him. He was off last and could not get through until the backstretch, but the early efforts of Orphan Lad exhausted him and he was beaten in the run to the wire for the place. Wexford could do no better than fourth at the end. This gelding has not recovered from his sulks.

AGAINST TRUSTS

Remarkable Speech by the President To-Day, in Which He Emphasizes the Position of the Government in Its Commercial Policy.

ACCUSES TRUSTS OF FORCING MONEY PANIC.

Declares that Great Inter-State Enterprises May Eventually Have to Be Officially Supervised as Are the National Banks.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Aug. 20.-Wall street's demand that President Roosevelt declare himself on his policy regarding trusts was granted by the President in his speech at the laying of the cornerstone of the Pilfrims' Monument to-day. His answer to Wall street is that the policy of the Government that resulted in a United States Court fining Standard Oil Company more than $29,000,000 will be adhered to.

He accused Wall street interests of forcing the prevailing depression n the prices of securities for the purpose of discrediting the Government.

The President said that he believed a sttage of warfare for the control of the Government has been reached, with the people on one side and a few ruthless, determined men of wealtth, hiding behind the breastworks of corporate organization, on the other.

He pledged himself to continue to prosecute violators of the trust aws during the eighteen remaining months of his administration.

Altogether, it was the most radical utterance of the President since he has taken to advising the people of his principles and policles through

In some material respects the speech of President Roosevelt as delivered was different from the advance copy furnished to the press. It is onsidered certain that the changes—which had the effect of making more pronounced the stand of the President-were made after the visit paid to him at Oyster Bay last week by Secretary of War Taft, Secretary of State Root and Postmaster-General Mayer.

The speech was received with unlimited enthusiasm and the Presidens was plainly delighted at his reception here.

The occasion—the laying of the corner-stone of the Pilgrim Memorial Monument—gave President Roosevelt an opportunity to pay an eloquent and graceful tribute to the part the Pilgrims and their descendants have played in the foundation and development of the United States. It furnished him, in addition, an opportunity to declare that in dealing with questions paramount to-day, of which the Puritans never dreamed, we must not lose the Puritan's iron sense of duty and his unbending will to do the right. On this point the President said:

PURITAN SPIRIT MUST PREVAIL.

"To the sons of the Puritans it is almost needless to say that the lesson above all others which Puritanism can teach this nation is the all-importance of the resolute performance of duty. If we are men we will pass by with contemptuous disdain alike the advisers who would seek to lead us into paths of ignoble case and those who would teach us to admire successful wrongdoing.

"Our ideals should be high, and yet they should be capable of achieve ment in practical fashion, andw e are as little to be excused if we parmit our ideals to be tainted with what is sordid and mean and base as if we allow our power of achivement to atrophy and become either incapable of effort or capable only of such fantastic effort as to accomplish nothing of permanent good. "The true doctrine to preach to this nation, as to the individuals composing this nation, is not the life of ease, but the life of effort. If it were in my power to promise the people of this land anything, I would not promise them pleasure. I would promise them that stern happiness which comes from the sense of having done in practical fashion a difficult work which was worth doing.

"The Puritan was no Laodicean, no laissez-faire theorist. When he saw conduct which was in violation of his rights-of the rights of man. the rights of God, as he understood them-he, attempted to regulate such conduct with instant, unquestioning promptuess and effectiveness. If there was no other way to secure conformity with the rule of right, then he smote down the transgressor with the iron of his wrath.

CHANGES ARE NECESSARY. "The spirit of the Puritan was a spirit which never shrank from regulation of conduct if such regulation was necessary for
